THE PROX PRESBYTERIANS

Considering the Case of Dr.
Briggs.

Reformed Presbyterians Are Wrangling Also.

Presbyterians.

By Associated Press.
DENVER, May 29.—This morning's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly began with the usual prayer meeting, in the course of which the death of Judge Breckenridge was often alluded to.

The debate on Dr. Briggs was resumed. Dr. Hathaway of Jersey City said he hoped Dr. Logan's amendment would be adopted.

After several others expressed their views, Dr. Worcester of Chicago offered a substitute to the amendment of Dr. Logan and to the committee report. It provides that a committee of eight ministers and seven elders be appointed to confer with the directors of the seminary; that the directors be specially requested to reconsider their action in transferring Dr. Briggs; that they be requested that Dr. Briggs should not be allowed to perform the duties belonging to said chair for the ensuing year.

Dr. Worcester then said: "I stand not as a supporter of Dr. Briggs, but as an advocate of peace. I have hoped and prayed our action might lead to unity, not bitterness, and make us strong for our great fight with evil. I believed there were many on both sides of the Briggs' question who feel as I do and long for some safe middle course. We have a right to do what I advise, to request the trustees of the Union Theological Seminary to reconsider their action. This course will not render the position of the New York Presbytery more difficult in the trial of Dr. Briggs."

More Presbyterians.

By Associated Press.
BIRMINGHAM (Ala.), May 29.—The Presbyterian General Assembly did not adjourn last night as expected.
Papers on the subject of divorces were read and referred for investigation. It was voted to continue the connection with the Pan-Presbyterian Council Alliance and to send delegates to the next meeting at Toronto. The assembly decided it could meet outside its own bounds. The most important question of the day was an overture from the last assembly about deacons and elders, which provided for a change in the law whereby deacons and elders shall go through certain examinations before induction into office.

Reformed Presbyterians.

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, May 29.—At to-day's session of the Reformed Presbyterian Synod the appeals of various suspended ministers were presented to the synod, but were referred to the Committee on Discipline without being read.

The report of the Board of Missions showed not one third the amount required has been contributed.

A resolution to prefer charges against a number of ministers for having written letters and given utterances in the News Letter to their views on the recent trials of suspended ministers, caused an animated discussion.

Legislation for Seals.

By Cable and Associated Press.
LONDON, May 29.—In the Commons to-day the bill prepared by the Government prohibiting British subjects from catching seals in British seas for a certain period was introduced. The duration of time during which seals cannot be captured, is not, however, given in the bill.

Bank Walkouts.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 29.—The American fisheries society, before adjourning, elected James A. Henshall of Cincinnati, President. The next meeting will be held at New York a year hence.

Attorney-General Recovered.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 29.—Attorney-General Miller has recovered from his recent indisposition and attended the Cabinet this morning.

Salisbury on Sealing.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 29.—Although it is the belief of officers of the State and Treasury Departments that sufficient time yet remains in which to pass an act of Parliament and effectually put into operation the "close season," the contrary opinion is taken of the situation by some other persons who say that the effort now being made was begun too late. This opinion is largely based on Canadian opposition and the possibility that Canadian influence may be strong enough to delay Parliamentary action, notwithstanding Salisbury's desire for a close season. It is understood that Salisbury himself, through Panncoffe, expressed to his government a doubt as to his ability to prevent operations by sealing vessels already fitted out and in Bering Sea prepared for work.

Scandal of an Earldom.

By Cable and Associated Press.
LONDON, May 29.—The committee for privileges of the House of Lords has heard evidence in the claim made by Randal Howard Thomas Berkeley, commonly known as Viscount Dursley, to the Earldom of Berkeley, in opposition to Baron Fitzharding Berkeley. Counsel on behalf of Baron Fitzharding said the fifth Earl of Berkeley tried to seduce a servant girl named Mary Cole, and failing in the attempt, married her and then conspired with the Chaplain who performed the ceremony to destroy the proof of marriage. The claim depends upon whether the fifth Earl of Berkeley did or did not marry Mary Cole previous to the birth of her oldest son. There is great interest in the case.

Sir John's Sickness.

By Associated Press.
TORONTO, May 29.—The Empire, a government organ, says in regard to the alarming reports as to the health of Sir John McDonald, that the only trouble is physical and nervous weakness which had, through hard work, resulted in prostration. He will probably lay aside business and take a much-needed rest. The report that Tupper is to be recalled from England to take charge of the party is denied, as is also the report that Sir John will resign the Premiership.

A Trust Attacked.

By Associated Press.
ALBANY (N. Y.), May 29.—Attorney-General Tabor has decided to begin an action against the Celluloid Novelty Company and the Celluloid Brass Company for violation of their charters. This is a blow at the cellu-loid trust which organized on exactly the same lines as the sugar trust.

London News.

By Cable and Associated Press.
LONDON, May 29.—The election for a Member of Parliament in place of Captain Verney, recently expelled from Commons, yesterday, resulted in a Gladstonian victory.

Made a Professor.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 29.—Dr. Hamilton, Surgeon-General of the Marine Hospital service, has resigned and accepted the position of professor of surgery and surgical pathology in the Rush Medical College of Chicago. He will be succeeded by Surgeon Walter Wyman.

Bank Fugitive.

By Associated Press.
WILMINGTON (Del.), May 29.—Gideon W. Marsh, a fugitive of the presented defunct Keystone Bank of Philadelphia, was in the town of Smyrna, one mile below this city, yesterday.
He left on a later train for Easton, Md., where he now is.

Doctors Arrested.

By Associated Press.
OMAHA, May 29.—Drs. McLaughlin, Sinclair and Williams of the Omaha Medical and Surgical Institute have been arrested, charged with the murder of Isabella Beaver, a young girl on whom a criminal operation had been performed.

Non-Attention in Office.

Special to the GAZETTE.
SUSANVILLE, May 29.—L. Pyle and C. McClaskey have brought action against District Attorney Pardee and Deputy Dodge for misconduct and non-attention in office.

Morrow, foreman of the Pacific Metal Works, was caught in the machinery this morning and crushed so he will probably die.

the amount of $2,450,000 is taken for export to-morrow.

CHILI INSURGENTS

Threaten to Bombard Valparaiso.

NO INTENTION TO INTERVENE.

But Foreign Fleets Will Protect.

Gladstone Suggests Jerusalem
For the Jews.

Chili Rebellion.

By Cable and Associated Press.
PARIS, May 29.—Dispatches received here from Chili state the insurgents, contrary to their promises, now threaten to bombard Valparaiso.
In view of this threat the defenses of that city are being hurriedly strengthened. It is believed that foreign powers will intervene should the insurgents carry out their threats.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The State Department has not been officially informed of any intention on the part of the Chilean insurgents to bombard Valparaiso, as reported from Paris.
There is no disposition on the part of this government, so far as can be learned, to "intervene" in the Chilean contest. The meaning of this term in diplomatic language is siding with one faction or the other. If the insurgents should attempt to bombard that city it is more than probable that the foreign interests of that city are larger than the native Chilean interests. In view of this large interest it may be that the protest, if disregarded, may be enforced by the foreign fleets in Chilean waters, but their action would go no further than necessary to protect the lives and property of the foreign subjects.

Treasurer Arraigned.

By Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) May 29.—John Bardsley, City Treasurer of Philadelphia, was arraigned in Court to-day to answer to triple charges of misappropriating $30,000 of the city money, the embezzlement of $400,000 and ur-wards of State funds, and perjury in violating his oath of office by loaning the city money out at interest.

The District Attorney said the books of the Treasurer's office showed a balance in the Keystone Bank of $600,- 000, while in fact there was only $400,- 000 there. In the cash drawer of the Treasurer's desk were checks on the Keystone for $200,000. These Bardsley took to the bank examiner Drew and asked to have placed to his credit in the Keystone. A similar state of affairs was shown in regard to money belonging to the city. After an examination of a number of witnesses and after Bardsley took the stand and admitted having deposited the State money in the Keystone Bank and received interest thereon, the magistrate committed the prisoner under $40,- 000 bail to answer the three charges.

Indian Outrage.

By Associated Press.
ATOKA (Ind.), May 29.—W. J. New-comb, a picture canvasser, who has just arrived here, related an adventure with Indians at Buggy Depot, fifteen miles from here. Newcomb and his partner, R. H. Stapleton, camped near the Indians and in some way offended them, whereupon the Indians ordered them to leave. This the two men did, but had traveled but a short distance when they found themselves in ambush. Newcomb escaped a shower of bullets, but his partner was killed. Stapleton's body was found later riddled with bullets.

Gladstone on the Jews.

By Cable and Associated Press.
LONDON, May 29.—In response to a letter from a member of parliament, asking him to join in claiming for the Jews in Russia, the rights accorded Mohammedan subjects of the Czar, Gladstone said his personal action would have no weight. He thought the pressure of opinion of the civilized world, based upon ascertained facts, would be the best proceeding.
Gladstone expressed the hope that the Sultan of Turkey would support the scheme for the settlement of the Jews in Palestine.

Baldwin, administrator of the estate of Marvin Baldwin, has commenced suit against John C. Hall, C. P. Hall, Joseph Scheerer, Fred Moore and Ed.
Burrell, sureties to the amount of mer administratrix, to recover said sums, alleging Mrs. Baldwin has failed to account for assets amounting to about $109,000.

Base Ball Players Arrested.

Special to the GAZETTE.

egram from Sacramento asking that the men be held on account of debt, made an application to the Circuit Court this afternoon for release on a writ of habeas corpus. The writ was ordered returned at a late hour this afternoon.

The Sailor Boy's Murderer.

By Cable and Associated Press.
LIVERPOOL, May 29.—The coroner's jury, which has been investigating the death of the boy whose body was found floating in a sailor's bag in the river, returned a verdict of murder to-day against John Conway, a steamship fireman and a leading member of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union.

Crushed to Death.

By Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 29.—This morning the dead bodies of two workmen were found in an excavation for a building.
The embankment caved in last night before the men quit work, and unknown to anyone. The two men were crushed to death.

carth, died suddenly to-day.

SIXTY MINUTES.

How the Measure for Time Came to be Adopted.

Why is our hour divided into sixty minutes, each minute into sixty seconds, etc.? Simply and solely because in Babylonia there existed, by the side of the decimal system of nations, another system, the sexagesimal, which counted by sixties. Why that number should have been chosen is clear enough, and it speaks well for the practical sense of those ancient Babylonian merchants. There is no number which has as many divisors as sixty.

The Babylonians divided the sun's daily journey into twenty-four parasas, or 720 stadia. Each parasang or hour was subdivided into sixty minutes. A parasang is about a German mile, and the Babylonian astronomers compared the progress made by the sun during one hour at the time of the equinox to the progress made by a good walker during the same time, both accomplishing one parasang.

The whole course of the sun during the twenty-four equinoctial hours was fixed at twenty-four parasangs, or 720 stadia, or 360 degrees. This system was handed on to the Greeks, and Hipparchus, the Greek philosopher, who lived about 150 B. C., introduced the Babylonian hour in Europe. Ptolemy, who wrote about 150 A. D. and whose name still lives in that of the Ptolemaic system of astronomy, gave still wider currency to the Babylonian way of reckoning time.

It was carried along on the quiet stream of traditional knowledge through the Middle Ages, and strange to say, it sailed down safely over the Niagara of the French revolution. For the French, when revolutionizing weights, measures, coins and dates, and subjecting all to the decimal system of reckoning, were induced by some unexplained motive to respect our clocks and watches and allow our dials to remain sexagesimal—that is, Babylonian, each hour consisting of sixty minutes.

AN APOLOGY.

The "Enterprise" Says the Health of Virginia Was Never Better.

The health of Virginia City was never worse than at this time, and the cause of the sickness is attributed to the decayed timber in the deserted mines. Pneumonia, la grippe and what is termed Bright's disease seem to be the prevailing disorders.—RENO GAZETTE.

The GAZETTE approvingly reprints the above from the Carson Tribune, in spite of the positive denial of the Enterprise that there is any sickness in the town above the ordinary. The public health of Virginia City is now first-class. The recent storms seem to have driven out all disease and purified the atmosphere. We expect only decent publications to credit us with this fact.—Enterprise.

So long as the Enterprise shall be the judge of what constitutes a "decent publication" the GAZETTE will have no kick coming.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION

The outlook for a prosperous year in Nevada was never better than now. The frequent rains that have visited the State insure an abundant harvest and the ranges never looked better. What cattle and sheep we have to market will be rolling fat and from present indications will command good prices in the markets of the world; the fall wool clip will be the largest ever known, and will be sought for from every quarter of the globe. The fruit crop promises to be exceptionally large and fine, and Nevada apples will find a ready sale at one dollar a box. The hay and grain crop will be unusually large, and with the mining industry holding up its head, the prospects are indeed flattering. Eastern capital is looking for investments in Eastern Nevada, and the silver lining is plainly visible all over the State. Through the efforts of the State Board of Trade the commonwealth is attracting more attention than for twenty years. The forty-five thousand who are here now certainly have reason to congratulate themselves on the prosperity that has been vouchsafed to them and upon the encouraging outlook for the future. The State is capable of furnishing homes this year for thirty thousand people who have been chasing the fickle bird of fortune through the boomed sections of California, Washington and Oregon without success, and will very likely catch some of the discontented of other States to come in and share the prosperity that awaits the worker in Nevada's thriving hive.

NEVADA farmers should not hide their light under a bushel. The coming State Fair offers a fine opportunity to prove to the world the many superior advantages this State possesses and should be taken advantage of. Every producer brings in a consumer, and new blood and more people are what we are looking for. Take a week this fall, come to the State Fair and exhibit something if it is nothing more than a head of cauliflower or cabbage, a sack of spuds or a box of apples, a fat steer or Angora goat, a brood mare or a Jersey cow, a stallion or a well formed Hereford, Holstein or Durham calf, an oil painting or a roll of butter, a buggy or a cheese, a box of Nevada soap or a sack of flour, a display of fancy work or a lot of canned fruit and preserves, but bring something to give proof to the world that Nevada people are not behind the times in the production of good things. It will be money well spent, for it will broaden your ideas and make you wiser and better for the week's rest. Get out and exchange thoughts with your neighbor and be happy. Come to the State Fair and profit by the week's observations.

The Democratic party has evidently given up all hope of winning the next Presidential race, for it is devoting all its newspaper space and energy to a discussion of the Republican candidates. The party leaders are timidly toying with the Farmers' Alliance movements with the hope of getting half a loaf, but the chances of an absolute Democratic victory, it would seem, have been abandoned, if we may judge from the attitude of that party's organs.

DOUGLAS, Elko and Humboldt offer superior inducements to the home-seeker. Land is cheap, water plenty, and the discontented of other sections can find an inexhaustible field of resources to draw from.

THE GAZETTE pictorial department is making the paper more popular than ever. The people seem to appreciate our effort to give them the latest news in the latest and most attractive form.

ALL the lumber camps and mills up the river have about completed arrangements for a big season's run—another proof that good times may be expected.

ASIATIC JUSTICE.

Patent Submission to the Agent of God—Bribe-Taking Judges.

The opposition offered by Riza Pasha and others of the higher officials to judicial reform in Egypt is usually set down in this country to corrupt motives, writes a contributor in the Spectator. They want bribes, it is said, for protecting unworthy suitors, or they desire the opportunity of oppressing their enemies, or their dependents' enemies, through the agency of the police. The charge is probably true in part, most certainly it is true in regard to the irregular power and the abject deference and sense of authority which irregular power speedily produces; but they could, if they were perfectly articulate, make a better defense for themselves than Englishmen imagine—a defense, too, in which the suitors before them would cordially concur. There are just Asiatics as well as unjust, though they are usually few, and Asiatics, too, whom no man could bribe; and as they and their supplicants would resist Mr. Scott's reforms as stiffly as their corrupt competitors it may be of some interest to state the reasons why. The popular notion that Asiatics do not care for justice, or even positively dislike it, is of course without foundation. The approval of justice is almost as instinctive as the idea of difference between right and wrong, and an Asiatic submits more humbly to a just sentence than a European. The agent of God, he thinks, has found him out, which it was his especial business in this world to do, and which is evidence, among other things, of the reality of his commission, and vindictiveness on that account would be only a new crime—an idea asserted by English jailkeepers to be also entertained by the convicts in their charge.

The idea that an Asiatic does not desire a just decision on the merits of the case between plaintiff and defendant, or between accused and accuser, is utterly without foundation. The only difference in that respect between the races is that the Asiatic is not convinced of the inherent equality of men, holding that the great and those invested with sanctity ought to have some favor shown them, and that as regards fitting punishments, he belongs to the fiftieth century and would have no kind of feeling about torture, mutilation, or breaking on the wheel. The highest Egyptian exponent of the law did, indeed, in this very discussion, lay it down as a cardinal dogma that a brigand should suffer the amputation of his hands—a penalty which no European government dare attempt to enforce for any offense whatever.

MERRY INDIANS.

The Theory That They Never Laugh Proved to Be Erroneous.

The general theory of white men is that an Indian is taciturn, reticent and self-contained, without a streak of humor, and no taste at all for a good joke. This is an error, says the Kansas City Star. They are funny themselves, like fun in others, and probably do more laughing than anybody, on infinitely slighter foundation. An outfit of Navajos had just concluded a vigorous and searching investigation of the willow, which stood at the rear of the restaurant at Eagle, N. M., one day, when a Santa Fe fireman, who stood watching them, concluded to stoop them up a little. They surely needed it, albeit they clung to different views from the fireman.

By blandishment and guile and much as elder people petulant and timid children when steering their inexperienced against some medicinal downfall, the firemen took the gathering of savages over to the waterfront, and, letting down the spout, earnestly advised them to stand beneath and see what they would see. Some four or five had the resolution to do this, the major portion of the gang retiring to a safe distance and taking a very pessimistic view of the proceeding. When the candidates were all placed, their friend, the fireman, counted "one, two, three," and an assistant turned on the tank. About a ton of water struck these poor Indians all at once. For a second they seemed held by the deluge itself, and stood motionless, but the next, with soul transfixing shrieks, they started. They did not run nor fly, for that would not have been half fast enough; they just hit about three high places on the plain and were several miles away.

The dry Indians laughed and howled with delight and for two hours after the joke their yells of pleasure still resounded through the little camp.

Traveler, Landlord and Wildcat.

The Atlanta Constitution tells a good story of a traveler who stopped at a Lee county hotel a short time ago. The landlord had just bought a live wildcat, which was chained in the yard that night. When the landlord went through the house putting out the lights, which worked up and down with a chain, the traveler thought the noise was the growling of a wild beast. It seemed to come nearer and nearer, and he was convinced that the wildcat had escaped and was dragging its chain through the house. He stood it as long as possible, but remembering that he had left his door ajar, became greatly excited, sprang from the bed, made a dash for the window in his night-dresses and jumped to the ground. The proprietor saw him, and thinking that he was about to jump his board bill made a break for him, the two men joining in the chase. They ran in nearly a mile down the railroad track, when thinking that the wildcat was close at his heels, and being unable to run further, the traveler climbed a tree and was captured.

Looking Ahead.

A curious instrument of writing exists in Dunkirk, Ind. It appears that two early lovers failed, for some reason unexplained, to marry, but married others. Later a written agreement has been signed up, in absolute secrecy, providing for their future marriage to each other in the event they survive their present companions. This contract further provides a liquidated damage of five thousand dollars upon failure of contract, as provided. They set forth in their contract that, owing to respect for children, etc., no divorce shall be asked for, but that they shall trust in Providence to remove present unwelcome stayers.

ANOTHER AUSTRALIAN IDEA.

The Torrens System of Registering Real Estate Transfers.

The American Contractor contains the following in regard to the Australian system of real-estate transfers, known as the Torrens system. "This system has been in use for over thirty years in Australia, and as far as can be learned, gives satisfaction and does not infringe upon anyone's right or privileges. In south Australia in seventeen years the total amount of claims arising on account of titles thus granted was fifteen hundred dollars. Its discussion by the Illinois State Bar association is evidence of the interest that is being felt in it and recognition of its merits.

"Briefly stated, it is what is known as registration of titles—a system by which, after the title is registered, it is transferred only on the books of the registrar in analogy to the transfer of registered bonds, stocks, vessels, etc. It most closely resembles the transfer of vessels, which is done by the surrender of the old certificate of registration and taking out a new one in the name of the new owner. Such a system has been used in Bavaria, Prussia and other European states for over a hundred years, and in Hamburg for over six hundred years. Its use among English-speaking people originated in South Australia by Sir Robert Torrens, and has been generally known as the 'Torrens system.' He claims it was first suggested to him by the method in use in transferring vessels. So satisfactory has it proved that it has since been adopted in the other Australian colonies and in Tasmania, New Zealand, the Fiji Islands, British Columbia, Manitoba and Ontario. It is also permitted in England.

"The distinguishing feature is that the title is transferable only upon the record on the surrender and cancellation of the certificate of title of the seller and a new certificate is issued to the purchaser.

"If only a portion of the land is transferred a certificate is issued to the purchaser for the part purchased and a new one to the owner for the part which he retains. If a peculiar estate is created, as for years or for life, a certificate is issued to one for the particular estate and to the other for the reversion or remainder. Every transfer is under supervision of the registrar, and all questions touching its regularity and validity are settled at the time of the transfer. So no question affecting the title can, therefore, arise except in case of fraud, and then only while the property remains in the hands of the purchaser or others having notice of the fraud.

"It would do away with the enormous cost of obtaining abstracts as well as avoid the loss of time incident upon the present transfer of title. It would save the state some millions annually which now are spent in making, keeping and storing the thousands of volumes upon whose pages the old and new records are spread in detail, all of which have to be gone over every time a new owner obtains the fee to the property unless he accepts in lieu thereof the guaranty of some title-guaranty trust company, which is good only so long as said company remains wholly solvent. But the purchaser has no assurance that if in future years some hidden claim arises against his property the title-guaranty company will not be so inebriated with suits on other claims as to be already insolvent, if perchance it may not already from other causes have gone out of business.

"The state, which is the people in their aggregate or representative sense, should be the arbiter, guarantor and guarantor of all titles to real property, just as it is the protector of the individual rights of all citizens, and this should be done at the minimum expense of money and time both to the state and the citizen, commensurate with security and protection to separate rights under the laws."

UNCLE JOE IRWIN'S FISH JOKE.

How He Got a Great Mess of Rock and Striped Bass on the Potomac.

Uncle Joe Irwin, the veteran disciple of Isaac Walton, relates a good story of the way in which he once secured a fine string of bass and rock fish that had been caught with a seine, says the Kansas City Star. Mr. Irwin was spending a few weeks at Washington, D. C., and one day went out for a day's sport with the rod and line on the Potomac above Georgetown, a place noted for bass, rock fish and white perch.

"On arriving at the place where I usually fished," says Uncle Joe, "I saw some fishermen landing a seine. I was anxious to see what luck they were having and waited until they began to throw out their fish. I noticed they had large baskets in which they put their shad and herring, but occasionally noticed them throw a rock or striped bass into the grass of the meadow that adjoined the fishing ground. The law is strict in the District of Columbia in regard to taking game fish during certain seasons, and I soon became satisfied that it was not the intention of the fishermen to throw them back into the river as the law required, and as I was a stranger to them they did not care to take the risk of putting them into the baskets in my presence. I then concluded to play a little joke on the fishermen and innocently asked if the fish thrown into the grass were unfit for food, and they assured me that such was the case and that the fish were not worth a cent. Having thus led them into the trap I told the boy who was carrying my bait and lunch basket to gather them up and string them, as I might not be lucky enough to catch any myself and poor fish would be better than none and save me from being laughed at on going back to the capital. The boy obeyed orders, selecting the finest to be found, and filled the fish baskets. I thanked the fishermen kindly and started off for my usual fishing place, but before getting out of earshot I heard one of the men who had been watching me very quizzically remark: 'That old man is pretty sharp. He knew what those fish were and that we were not allowed to take them at this time of the year.' They did not invite me to call again."

LUCCA, the singer, will hereafter devote herself exclusively to teaching, and will receive only eight pupils, and such as show that they have a good future before them.

THE DIGNITY OF LABOR.

Elevated by the Eloquence of Charles Sumner, but Denounced by an Irate Miner of Nevada.

When Charles Sumner was United States Senator from Massachusetts he delivered on one occasion a lecture before that body and chose for his text "The Dignity of Labor." It is hardly necessary to say that the subject was handled by him in a masterly manner, and with his eloquence and fervor it produced a profound sensation and greatly enlarged his circle of admirers. Among those who were so attracted, not as a believer in his doctrines, but simply enthusiastic over the orator's scholarly attainments, was a young man from St. Johns, New Brunswick, who with his parents and other members of the family emigrated to California in the early '60's.

THE FAMILY WAS NOTED

In those pioneer days for being one of the best educated in their settlement, and the young man referred to possessed more than average attainments. But he was like many young men when first entering on the battle of life, quite given to building castles in the air, and deferred making use of his talents until some time in the future, when with the aid of wealth he expected to acquire he would take a prominent place in the community. His experience, however, was similar to that of many other high minded youths who came to California to woo fortune and failed. After spending ten years in agricultural pursuits there with no success, he was tempted to come to Nevada. In due time, in 1883, he arrived in Austin and for five or six years prospected and worked on Lander hill, without making a strike. Fortune kept out of his reach, and he was then tempted to try his luck at faro.

FROM CLOSE OBSERVATION

Around the games, he became convinced that intelligent application of the principles of a system which he had evolved would result in tapping the bank for all it held, and some of them in those days were supplied with a liberal capital. Of course his system was a failure, and every day witnessed the same result; the dealer always raked in his gains, and the player before the system was played to the winning point. Fortune still eluded him, and like many others, he concluded he must do something to "change his luck," and he decided on following the "will of the wisp" to the then newly discovered mines of White Pine. His experience there did not differ from that which befell him on Lander hill, and in the winter of 1889 he found himself hammering a drill head in one of the prominent mines on Treasure Hill. The winter was a severe one and the inclemencies of the

WEATHER AT THAT POINT,

Which was at an elevation of nearly 10,000 feet, together with the poor protection afforded by the frail cabins occupied by nearly all at that day, made a miner's life one of real hardship; and when accompanied by ill success, it was at times most exasperating to reflect back upon a life wasted. But such has been the experience of the vast majority, and while most of us "take our medicine" philosophically, our young English friend was by nature impatient and petulant, and he chafed over his ill luck and was prone to magnify all of life's little ills. He had two companions with him in the cabin that winter who were also employed in the mines, but worked on the night shift, while he worked by day. His comrades usually came home in the morning before he was awake, and generally went to bed quietly so as not to disturb him. They always addressed him by his first name—Charlie—and would some time chaff him over his woeing fortune in every clime, beside trying a "system."

HE WAS IRRITABLE

And sometimes very cross, and as the winter weather grew colder and the discomforts of their cabin increased, life became a torment to Charlie. Everything was frozen up in the wintry mornings when he had to rise and go to work. The water bucket was generally frozen nearly solid, and it was necessary to take a hatchet to break through and get enough for the morning ablutions. Articles of clothing, especially canvas overalls and shirts, boots and socks, would be as stiff as iron poker, and the overalls would stand alone. It would try the Christian spirit of any one to dress without a fire, with the thermometer at 20° below zero, and as Charlie made no pretensions to any Christian professions, the cabin would frequently shake with his suppressed mutterings while pulling on his frozen boots. His comrades would quietly listen and feign sleep until he left for breakfast and then laugh immoderately at his

EXHIBITION OF ILL TEMPER.

One morning while he was dressing and in his usual ill humor pulling on a frozen boot by the broken straps, he had to stamp vigorously on the floor to get his foot in; and with his patience so sorely tried; his ill luck staring at him through the frozen fog on top of that filled with the icy coldness of death; with his past life before him and his scholastic attainments put to no better use than swinging a sledge over a drill head, he exploded in a vigorous protest against fate, and regardless of disturbing his quiet comrades, he turned loose and with much profanity cursed his luck in a string of epithets that would make a ship mate envious; as he became exhausted he suddenly thought of Charles Sumner, and he closed his outburst by saying, "D—n the man who first talked on the dignity of labor." Then his comrades, Charlie Kimball, now of Hawthorne, and Mose Lyons, unable to longer remain quiet, broke the torrent of Charlie's passions by an uproarious laugh.

DROWNED.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Monice Echeverria of Wadsworth was drowned at that place yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

ITS EXCELLENT QUALITIES.

Command to public approval the California Liquid Fruit Remedy, Syrup of Figs. It is pleasing to the eye, and to the taste, and by gentle action on the kidneys, liver and bowels, it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

GIRLS AT COLLEGE.

The Social Arrangements for Young Women in Educational Institutions.

As a matter that may have some relation to the methods pursued at our home institutions, the GAZETTE gives space for the following expression of views upon this important subject, which was reported in the Bulletin of Tuesday:

At a quarterly meeting of the Pacific branch of the Collegiate Alumnae the subject for discussion was "Social Arrangements for Girls in Co-Educational Colleges." Letters of the different colleges admitted to the association, were read, describing the method followed in each and its working.

The drift of the letters may be shown by a few extracts. The first is from a letter of Miss Marion Talbot, trustee of Boston University and President of the trustees of the Harvard Annex, A. B. and A. M. of Boston University and S. B. of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They (the girls of Boston University and the Institute of Technology) come and go just as they please, find their own boarding places and are watched no more than the boys. My experience convinces me that our women students, dependent on their own sense of dignity, honor and womanliness, make far fewer real mistakes consciously and unconsciously, than our city society girls do deliberately and in spite of the conventionalities which are supposed to protect them.

From President Adams of Cornell: Many modifications have been introduced into Sage College. The most important of these is the employment of a Principal, whose duty it is to act as guide, philosopher and friend of the young ladies. She is held responsible by the trustees for the carrying out of the simple rules of the house.

In matters of social life outside of the house, Mrs. Hooker also stands in loco parentis, and every inmate of the house is required to inform her of any engagement that may be made. We are of the opinion that this custom works admirably, and that the social abilities of the young ladies in this way are sufficiently developed.

WALKER LAKE FISHING.

Enthusiastic Fishermen Get Ducked While Landing Bass.

Hawthorne is becoming a fisherman's resort if one can credit the fish stories related in the Walker Lake Bulletin. Last week a party of prominent citizens of Belmont, came all the way from that inland hamlet to angle for suckers in Hawthorne's fish pond. Among them were Thomas Warburton, who first fished for minnows in Stockton slough and at French Camp in the early '80's, Allen MacDonald and A. T. Oliver, neither of whom have caught anything but a sardine for the past twenty-eight years. Of course they met with fishermen's luck, as told by the Bulletin as follows:

Mr. Warburton hooked the largest bass yet caught in the lake—nearly three pounds—and in his efforts to land the fish he slipped on the rocks and fell full length into the water. He suffered no greater damage than a complete soaking. His companions pumped him full of Double A, and hustled him home, none the worse for his bath. The Belmonters took a fine lot of fish home with them.

"I Could Move the World. If I had something to rest my lever on," said Archimedes. Large bodies move or are moved slowly. But it is no impossible or even difficult task to render those small bodies, the kidneys, active when they are not so. Don't try to do this with uneducated, cathartic stimulants. The experiment is useless. The sure, safe means is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which affords just the right amount of stimulus without overdoing the matter. Continued inactivity of either the kidneys or bladder, it should never be lost sight of, are attended with great peril. Bright's disease, diabetes, and other ailments which affect the renal organs, have their origin in inaction of the kidneys. To overcome this is an easy matter at the outset. Not so later. Now is the appointed time in a case of this sort. Irregularity of the bowels, stomach trouble, rheumatism and malaria are remedied by the Bitters.

"A GROWL." Mr. Editor: Although my taxes are small, yet they are as burdensome to me as if I paid much more. And as a taxpayer, I feel that I have a right to criticize those extravaganzas that are factors in the creation of high taxes. I have in my mind the county hospital. No sooner does the impecunious citizen become broken down and debilitated, than he rushes off to the hospital. Even persistent dyspepsia and constipation are getting to be excuses for admission. Hence, allow me space to enter my feeble protest against further continuance of this pernicious practice. It costs too many hard dollars for the treatment of these unfortunate, and it is high time that they should know that they can save the county that expense, by the judicious use of a few bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.—A remedy that within my observation is a sovereign cure for those too common disorders. If they won't take it they ought to be compelled to by some law that would meet the case. Under the circumstances a full hospital is inexorable.—hence this growl.
